March 2026

Hello! Spring is almost here – by way of summer, lately. We had a great meeting this month with 30 members present – nearly half of our total paid membership.

Tanner Steed at the March meeting

Our March guest artist, Tanner Steed, provided an interesting demonstration in the use of hard pastels to prepare a preliminary sketch for a painting. He was showing us the importance of drawing and establishing values in the painting process.

All you need to paint is a few tools, a little instruction, and a vision in your mind – Bob Ross

MARCH MEETING SUMMARY

Thirty current and new members of the Art Guild were present.

Guild Business and Announcements

- The Broomfield Enterprise from March 8th featured eight photos of member artwork. The April 5th edition should have another batch of photos. We could still use more photos; send them to Dave at the Guild email address.
- For any new members - those who have joined in the last 12 months - who are interested in displaying some of your art at Brunner Farmhouse, please let Dave know and we will put together a New Member show, which may include an evening reception, during the month of May. We will post a link to the sign-up form in the next couple of weeks.
- Anthem Art Extravaganza Update: New dates are set – August 8 and 9; we will set up the evening of August 7th.
- If you have seen an artist demo that our group might be interested in, or know any artists who do demos, please send their contact information to Dave or Gale.

On-going exhibits:

- Library will take down its first showing on March 26th at 11:00 and put up the second showing immediately after the takedown. Second showing will last until the end of June.

- The Community Center (BCC) display was installed on March 2nd; Take down will be the end of May.
- iPie - Margretta needs an artist to display there for June. Contact her at smyliemp@gmail.com.
- City Hall – The City Hall display for March will be removed on April 3rd and we will put up Roger Carver's oils the same day.
- Brunner –New member Caroline Hatfield will be putting up her art on April 2nd.

Guest Artist - Tanner Steed showed us how he draws a value study using hard pastels, stressing the importance of drawing in the painting process. His demonstration was interesting and well received by the members. For the April meeting Christian Done, a well-known acrylic abstract artist (<https://www.christiandore.com/>) will demonstrate his approach to art and some of his techniques for creating his unique artwork.
